It is very probable that the coming Congress will admit all the territories to Statehood, with the possible exception of Utah.

St. Louis is making a great effort for the World's Fair to be held in 1892. Jay Gould has donated a site of 500 acres of ground in the suburbs of the city, and $500,000 in money to assist the St. Louis boom. St. Louis is not second in the competition under the present state of things.

Bob Ford, the slayer of the notorious Jesse James, hobs bloodily again. He shot and killed a man in a saloon at Walsburg, Colorado, last Thursday. He was acquitted on the grounds of self-defense, as the man he killed shot at Ford first, whereupon the latter shot his assailant three times in rapid succession.

One peculiarity about wheat and corn is the fact that while they are produced at almost a loss to the farmers, yet the grain speculators, those who handle (buy and sell) the products grow rich. It is claimed that there is an over-production. The unexplained mystery is how over-production can be wealth for the Nation and at the same time poverty for the producers.

Governor Foraker of Ohio has been too sick for several days to make any campaign speeches, and this gives the Republicans greater hope. Foraker's election depends entirely with Senator Sherman. If he decides to pass over the knifing which Foraker gave him in the Chicago Convention Foraker will be re-elected, but if not, he will probably be defeated.

Frank J. Bowman, an attorney formerly of St. Louis, was killed Monday last week by B. M. Chambers, an ex-banker, over a debt which Bowman claimed Chambers owed him.

Bowman owes a fee of $50,000 for collecting a debt of the Pacific Railway Company. This is said to be the largest fee ever paid to a Missouri lawyer.

Some of our exchanges have been speculating as to who is the editor or publisher of our esteemed contemporary, the Poplar Bluff Citizen. Secretary of State Lesueur settles the point in question in his official Manual of the State. You will there find that it reads "Thos. Mabrey."

However, it is of but small concern who is the editor; the paper is a model news medium and its make-up worthy of emulation.

The Supreme court of Illinois has decided that newsboys on trains are not trespassers, and that the railroad companies are responsible for any damages the newsboys may receive while on the trains, or while being allowed to jump on and off. An injured newsboy brought suit for $4,000 and recovered—hence the decision. This is the first decision of the kind and has caused quite a sensation. Some claiming that it will put an end to the newsboys on trains, or at least greatly reduce their service.

Senator M. K. McGrath says that the law passed by the last Legislature for the punishment of pools, trusts, grain-gambling, etc., was gotten up by the very men whom it was ostensibly intended to punish. The gamblers pushed the measure to a law to draw the attention of the Assembly from some effective measure, well knowing that if the law passed pools, trusts and grain-gambling was untouched. Many members voted for the measure believing it a thrust at the gamblers, while it was absolutely harmless—gotten up for the occasion.

The contest for the next Speaker in the House is warming up perceptibly. Those now in the race are Reed of Maine, Burrows of Michigan, McKinley of Ohio and Cannon of Illinois. At the present time Cannon leads the race. He is supported by the Administration and by Alger. Blaine will knife Reed in the interest of McKinley. When Reed sees that there is no chance for him he will doubtless throw his strength to Cannon, as there is a rivalry between Cannon and Reed.

Farmer Wade of this State is for Reed, while the three other Republican Congressmen are pronounced for McKinley. Cannon claims Missouri on second choice.

The Press extends the right hand of fellowship to Bro. Mosley of the Bloomfield Vindicator in his marriage on the 23rd to Miss May Bedford of the same city.

Some of Jackson's citizens are insanely contending that if the proposed road from Perryville to Cape Girardeau passes through Jackson that it will "kill the town." It is not railroads that "kill towns." It is just such old drawbacks as the fellows above referred to.

President Eliot of Harvard University has created a furor of excitement in the East by changing from the Republican to the Democratic party. He has been making some speeches in Massachusetts and his influence will be sensibly felt as he is a very able man.

Kentucky has become historical for its feuds, but the oldest and most pronounced one is that which is now dressed in its war paint in Harlan county, and which originated ten years before the civil war. A dispatch to the Globe-Democrat says that Harlan county is the most mountainous one in the State. Has about 1,200 voters with a Republican majority of 600. The presiding judge of the county is in charge of the Law and Order League and is endeavoring to capture the outlaws led by Wilson Howard. An engagement took place between the factions on the 25th in which two of the law-breakers were killed and several wounded, while the attacking party escaped unharmed. More blood is expected to flow soon.

Suffering among the settlers of Western Dakota is so great and extensive that the local authorities and relief societies are unable to grant the assistance required. Ramsey County, Dakota, has a population of 7,000 people. Of these, about 6,000 were engaged in farming. The frosts of last year cut off the crops generally, and the farmers were obliged to mortgage their farms for feed, provisions, clothing, etc., to carry them through last winter. This spring personal property, such as stock, machinery, etc., was mortgaged for seed and funds to put in the crop.

There has been a continual drought through the entire season and the crops have been almost a total failure.

The borrowed funds are entirely exhausted, as well as the credit of a large number of these people, and in Ramsey County alone there are from 200 to 300 families, farmers generally, that are entirely destitute. In Nelson and Walsh counties there is also great destitution and suffering, and there are probably in this district of North Dakota not less than 1,000 families who are nearly entirely destitute.—Republic.

There are newspapers, and then there are organs called newspapers. The difference between the two is as great as that between day and night. The newspaper publishes the news without regard to whom or what it concerns, and comments on persons and things without any regard to the feelings which exist between the editorial or business management and the persons or things that happen to be the subjects of honest criticism. The opinion a newspaper has of a public official, or of the candidate for a public position, is not moulded by the patronage which comes from the official or the office he seeks. The newspaper recognizes the right of every man to think, politically and otherwise, as he sees fit, so long as he thinks temperately and acts within the law; and has no right to malign his motives or abuse him for his actions. This, too, although the editorial or business management may have views directly opposite. The newspaper always falls readily in with a healthy public opinion, and does not try to shape its course in an opposite direction. An unhealthy public opinion is antagonized by the newspaper, and a healthy one made of it. For instance: A healthy public opinion decries that a man has not the ability to represent the people in any capacity, he is not a democrat in any sense, and the newspaper would be foolish, much as it might love the man, to attempt to buck against that healthy public opinion.

The organ, on the other hand, will do just the opposite, and that is the difference between the newspaper and the organ.—Signal.

The Cape Democrat good humorously prints that the Charleston Democrat's choice for Congress is all month and no brains. The Press has not been let into the secret as to who is the Charleston Democrat's choice, but offers the presumption that it is the Hon. Wm. Dawson, as Mississippi voted for him on first choice before. But Dawson's mouth is not too large, and he is not without brains.

After two months work a jury has been secured to try the murderers of Dr. Cronin who was assassinated in Chicago last May. It is one of the most notable trials in the history of Illinois as it will more or less implicate a secret Irish organization known as Clan Na Gael.

Secretary Noble has added another scandal to the list which he has made since he became a member of Mr. Harrison's cabinet. This latest one is his unexplained surrender to one of the boldest and most corrupt land rings that ever existed in the United States. One John A. Benson has employed an army of professional land pre-emptors to preempt the land in the Pacific and Rocky Mountain States, and Noble winks at the steal.

Secretary of State Lesueur says that the new anti-trust law will be of great good to the people. He has, upon application of attorneys for various trusts, extended the time thirty days for the report of trusts. He says that it has dissolved the miller's trust, the Winebester's trust, the molasses trust, the tobacco trust, the corset trust and several smaller trusts of which he has received no official notice. What the people, as a mass, are most anxious to know is whether it will dissolve the grain trust—gambling in grain. If it does Senator McGrath will have to confess his mistake and the people will thank the last Legislature.

The claims of the Republic and other Democratic dailies that Foraker will be defeated in Ohio are without foundation in fact. Ohio is to all intents and purposes a strong Republican State and Foraker will be elected by a majority of between 20,000 and 30,000, as will also a Republican Legislature, unless there should be a great falling off, and of which there is no perceptible proof. There is no reason why a third term should do more harm to Foraker in Ohio than it did in New York. Hill is serving his third term and Foraker will be elected to a third term on the 5th of November. To be sure, Democrats would prefer it otherwise, but as there are no good reasons for hoping it so, it is useless to attempt to feed the people upon false hopes.

The New Southeast, published at Dexter, is doing a great and grand work to build up and bring immigration to Southeast Missouri. The paper devotes its entire space and energies to this good work and should receive that large and liberal patronage and assistance which its laudable efforts so justly merit. Every citizen in this section is more or less directly interested in the development and prosperity of our part of the State. And just in that ratio he is equally interested in the prosperity of the New Southeast and aiding its dissemination where it will fall among those who are seeking new homes. The paper has sixteen clearly printed pages overflowing with the advantages offered by Southeast Missouri to homeseekers. It is only 50 cents a year and worth double the money to readers in this section, besides the incalculable good it is designed to do in inviting immigration.

Vice President Levi P. Morton is a saloon keeper in Washington. So says an Associated Press dispatch. Mr. Morton made application to the District of Columbia commissioners last Friday, in his own name, for a license to keep a dramshop. The saloon had been running several days before the application was made. The house is named as the Shoreman Hotel, and is directly in front of the Wornley Hotel. It is thought that the move will prove quite a paying business, owing to prominence of the proprietor, and will be head quarters for Republican drinks and those who court favors of the Vice President.

The Democrats are anxious to learn what the Republican Prohibitionists of Iowa, Maine, Kansas and Dakota will have to say of the Vice President's new venture. He is credited with keeping the very best old "Kaintucky" article on tap, while the bar is one of the handsomest in Washington. This is the first time in the history of our government that a Vice President ever made application for a saloon license during his term of office. But Morton has an eye to making money and he can afford to defy public opinion. There is no law, we believe, which prohibits the Vice President from taking out dramshop license, and the business of saloon-keeping is also sanctioned by law.

A PETERBURY PROPOSAL.

Bank Had a Big Time in Bringing Susie to May "Yes."

Miss Susie Tanager: Do you know what time it is, Hank Stoner?
Hank Stoner: No, nor I don't care.
"Oh, you don't? Well, it's time all good little boys were at home and in bed."
"You don't say?"
"Yes, I do, Smarty, and you'd better be going."
"I'll go when I get ready."
"Sass-box!"
"Say, Susie, say it yourself, while your mouth's open."
"Pshaw, now, Susie, I'm in earnest."
"Well, what am I doing?"
"You know what; you know I been going with you a long time, Susie."
"Fu-h! what if you have? Guess I never asked you to go with me, and—11 o'clock! you going to stay here all night?"
"Pshaw, Susie! you're tickled enough to have me stay, and you know it."
"A-a-t-w, Hank Stoner! As though I care whether you go or stay—pugh!"
"Oh, I guess I ain't such a fool as I look. But say, Susie."
"Well, say it, then, you minny! My hand's rest! I ain't hinderin' you."
"You are, too."
"Tee, hee, hee, hee!"
"Honest! I'm now, Susie; I'm in dead earnest! I ain't been your shadder six months for nothing."
"My shadder! La, Hank!"
"You know I ain't."
"How should I know? I ain't a witch."
"You act like one."
"You're polite, I must say!"
"I meant it as a compliment."
"Smart compliment!"
"I think the world and all of you, Susie."
"Hank!"
"I ain't foolin'!"
"Tee, hee, hee, hee!"
"Did you ever happen to think that you and me was old enough and big enough to get married?"
"P-o-o-h, Hank!"
"We air, I ain't thought of much else of late!"
"You ridiculous thing!"
"Well, I ain't. You like me purty well, don't you?"
"I'd be smart to say so if I did."
"Well, you might when we're going to get married!"
"Who said we were going to get married? It takes two to make a bargain, Mr. Smarty!"
"But you will, won't you, Susie?"
"I'll think about it."
"Pshaw, Susie! why can't you say 'yes' right out?"
"Oh, you're too anxious, and—let go my hand!"
"I shan't!"
"You mean thing! I've a notion to— the idea of you putting your arms around my waist like that and—now, you dare to kiss me again! What if pa or ma should come in?"
"Pough! They're in bed, where they'd ought to be!"
"Nice way to talk about my pa and ma. It's a good thing for you they are in bed!"
"Yes, I think so my self; I'd rather have 'em there than here."
"Tee, hee, hee! You mean thing!"
"Come, now, Susie, say yes. I love you like all-possession!"
"Aw, Hank! Take your mouth away from my cheek—g'way."
"Say 'yes' first."
"Well, I must—yes!"
"Hooray!"
"Shut up! Good heavens! You want to raise the dead?"
"I'm so happy, Susie!"
"Well, don't go crazy if you are—Z. D."

—[The preacher after tying the nuptial knot, said to the couple: "I have now made you one." "Wh— which one?" asked the girl, looking with a bashful, quizzed air. You want all denominations to be one? If you mean Baptist, all right. We shall be glad to receive you, to have Baptist to be that one. Nothing could delight us more. It is just what we have been working for and praying for all these centuries. But be it understood, once for all, that Baptist can never be any other one. We can never unite except upon our own principles. We believe we are right, and will die by the truth as we see it.—South-east Baptist, Lutesville.

Trustee's Sale.
Whereas, George D. Guthrie and Ann Guthrie, his wife, by their certain deed of trust dated the 12th day of Feb., 1887, and recorded in the recorder's office of Bollinger county, Missouri, the 24th day of May, A. D. 1887, book twenty-one, of page one hundred and eighty-six, conveyed to Joseph E. Baker, Trustee, the following described real estate, lying and being in the county of Bollinger, state of Missouri, to-wit: (in trust to secure the payment of the debt in said deed of trust described by certain promissory notes).
All of the southwest quarter of the north-east quarter, and six (6) acres of the south part of the northwest quarter of the north-east quarter, all in section twenty-nine (29), in township twenty-nine, north of range nine (9), east containing in all 40 acres. And, Whereas, it is provided in said deed of trust that in case of failure or refusal of said parties of the first part to pay said debt, or the interest thereon, or any part thereof, when the same shall become due and payable according to the true tenor, date and effect of said note, then the whole shall become due and payable; and
Whereas, said debt has long since become due and payable according to the true tenor, date and effect of said notes, and remains unpaid; and Therefore, I, Joseph E. Baker of Bollinger county, Missouri, at the request of the legal holder of said debt, and by virtue of the power and authority in this emergency in me vested, and pursuant to the provisions of said deed of trust, I will, on Saturday, November 2nd, 1889
between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the courthouse door, in the town of Marble Hill, proceed to sell the above-described real estate to the highest bidder for cash in hand, together with the costs and expenses of executing this deed of trust.
9-22 st. JOSEPH E. BAKER, Trustee.

Trustee's Sale.
Whereas, Polly M. Crain and Wm. S. Crain by their certain deed of trust, dated the 3rd day of August, 1880, and recorded in the Recorder's office of Bollinger county, Missouri, the 8th day of November, 1880, in Book 14 and page 158, conveyed to M. H. Williams, Trustee, the following real estate, lying and being in the county of Bollinger and the State of Missouri, to secure the payment of the debt in the said deed of trust described, to-wit:
The northeast quarter of the north-west quarter, and the southwest quarter of the north-west quarter of section thirty-six, township thirty-two, north of range ten east, containing 90 acres. And
Whereas, it is provided in said deed of trust that in case of failure or refusal of said parties of the first part to pay said debt or the interest thereon, or any part thereof, when the same shall become due and payable according to the true tenor, date and effect of said note, then the whole shall become due and payable; and
Whereas, said debt has long since become due and payable according to the true tenor, date and effect of said note, and remains unpaid, now,
Therefore, I, the undersigned trustee, at the request of the legal holder of said note and the power in me vested with, on Tuesday, November 12th, 1889,
between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and five o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the courthouse door in the town of Marble Hill, proceed to sell the above-described real estate to the highest bidder for cash, together with the costs and expenses of executing this deed of trust.
9-24 M. H. WILLIAMS, Trustee.
